

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This book has been my 15-year journey out of a lifetime experience of searching for answers regarding Bible Prophecy. As in the story of Moses, the introvert who faced the world's most powerful leader, I stand before of the prophets of Ba'al risking it all. If Moses was slow of speech, I too had my trouble with English being my second language. But thanks be to God for providing Aarons in my path. Such was Keith Davies my partner and manager who worked full-time assuring the completion of this book on time, and such was his wife Deborah for patiently assisting him to accomplish this mission; Such was Cheryl Taylor who helped with the editing, and prepared the book for desktop layout. Thanks also to Joel Richardson who partnered with me in writing this book, and to J. H. Hadley who came in at the end of this project to help edit. Each one contributed to reach our deadline for print.

Like Moses, this mission has had its blessings and its curses. The blessings provided by the Lord were a wealth of Biblical understanding; the opportunity to develop a deeper knowledge of long suffering and righteous anger. Yet, if Moses endured Pharaoh's curse so that God's people could be set free, I will accept the weight of this knowledge because it is essential in restoring America and the Church.

A special thanks goes to the two women God has placed in my path—to my wife who was the catalyst that enabled me to find the truth, and has borne the burden of many days when I am away from her and our two sons—to my mother who endured 35 years of suffering, living in exile against her will in a Muslim society, silently praying for my salvation.

Finally, thanks to you, my readers and supporters, who with your letters of encouragement and strong attendance wherever I go, means that we can continue the fight for truth and justice.
